

Stuart Gair – A preventable tragedy

A powerful and challenging opinion by Eamonn O'Neill.

Stuart Gair's death was a preventable tragedy and yet another stain on our disgraced justice system.

Any system that allows injustice on such a scale and procrastinates and covers-up when it is revealed is not worthy of the name.

As with Sally Clarke the memory will soon be allowed to fade until the next time and so the cycle of injustice is perpetuated with our legal leaders apparently unable or unwilling to do anything about it.

For further information:

http://shirleymckie.myfastforum.org/STUART_GAIR_ANOTHER_LOSS_TO_THE_SYSTEM_about73.html

<http://www.mojoscotland.com/news.html>

<http://www.theherald.co.uk/features/featuresopinon/display.var.1820370.0.0.php>